

What readers say about us...

“Alaska Business Monthly has a pulse on the business community from the in-depth stories in the monthly publication to the current news and events on the website, it’s a great resource for staying plugged into the local business community. From a marketing standpoint, it’s at the top of our list for business exposure and branding, and certainly read by the kind of professionals we want to reach.”

— Christopher Pobieglo, President of Business Insurance Associates, Inc.

“It is coverage you don’t get anywhere else and you have the ability in a magazine to go in-depth that even a newspaper couldn’t, or probably wouldn’t. A television has no time for in-depth. So you have an opportunity and I’m sure you are taking advantage of it to provide business coverage that is not covered elsewhere.”

— Greg Wolf, Executive Director, World Trade Center Alaska

“Alaska Business Monthly is the go-to publication for thorough analysis and comprehensive coverage on the issues impacting the development of Alaska’s natural resources and the economy. Its coverage on the latest development projects across Alaska’s resource sectors and local communities is exceptional. Each issue of Alaska Business Monthly is a must-read.”

— Carl Portman, Deputy Director, Resource Development Council for Alaska, Inc.

“I’ve been reading Alaska Business Monthly for over 15 years because I know I can count on it to give me an excellent overview to what’s happening throughout the state. Getting that statewide view is essential for our company.”

— Joe Sprague, VP Marketing, Alaska Airlines

“Alaska Business Monthly is a great medium in which to tell your story because it has a statewide business focus and people tend to read it once and then go back to it over the course of a month and use it as a reference tool. The quality of the magazine, professional photography and broad coverage on industry in Alaska make the publication particularly appealing.”

— Lynn Johnson, Dowland-Bach Corp President
